This Policy Insights collection examines how the features of the Humanitarian- Development-Peace (HDP) Nexus can inform, and have informed, education in emergencies (EiE) programming. Bringing together over 40 contributions from more than 100 authors across diverse regions, including half from the Global South, the publication offers rich perspectives on both the successes and challenges of implementing a nexus approach.

Our launch event will feature contributors discussing the key thematic areas emerging from the publication. Together, they will provide essential insights on a decade of practice and offer a roadmap toward a more coherent, inclusive, and sustainable future for education in crisis and beyond.
